

(Ret.) Sheriff Clarence W. Dupnik
Midtown - Tucson, Arizona

Leading a modern law enforcement agency in today's world requires real-world experience, the ability to prioritize decisions that will benefit the community, and the skill to put an agenda into motion for department growth and personnel development. Moreover, being a Sheriff requires the heart of service and love of community to live the commitment every day. In political season, candidates come forward and present their resumes and outline their theories about how they may do the job—these represent a gamble Pima County cannot afford to make.

We need leadership and continuity, Chris Nanos has taken the PCSD to new heights of accountability, transparency, and community-oriented programming. He is committed to the daily work of finding solutions and having courageous conversations with leaders and partners about what troubles our community and what can be done in partnership to mitigate these issues.

Law enforcement and community safety is a serious concern for all residents of Pima County. I am proud to support a Sheriff who is proving in action every day that he is the right person for the job. Our safety is far too important to lose out to political platitudes and uninformed promises. My vote is for what is working! In my years as Sheriff, we grew the department into a modern, professional organization setting the standard in many areas—Chris Nanos has exceeded that standard and will continue to move in the direction the community needs with principles, sensitivity, and a heart of service.

Respectfully,
